1. During the period from 1947 to June 1952, the mill at Muellrose delivered rye and wheat flour to Soviet units. Prior to 1951, the entire production of the mill was delivered to Soviet units while, after that date, it was turned over to civilian authorities and only partially supplied Soviet units. The following amounts were delivered between 1947 and June 1952:

forment. Transportation reports revealed that a large flour depot [] is located in Buellrose which is presumably subordinate to Main Supply Depot No 320 of the COFG, [] Frankfurt/Oder. The high-capacity mill there was mentioned in conjunction with large amounts of flour which, under the so-called flour shuttle operation, were processed at the mill. [] The return to civilian authorities of the mill is conceivable as the present demands of the Soviets do not fully use the capacity. []
